Worst Memory I was aboard the Cadmus enroute to catch FDR, CVA 42 in Italy. We left Norfolk Jan 1, 1958. About 60 other guys and I were trying to catch up with 6th fleet. The second day out we hit a storm that I thought was going to be the end of me. We were all laying on deck, eating oranges and crackers..had dry heaves for days. Do remember a 2nd class MA on front of chow line and as he spotted a especially green looking sailor would blow a cloud of smoke from his cigar at him and poor guy would go rushing topside to heave. I think this same MA was brought back to ship after taking a hell of a beating at our first stop in Italy.
Children 5 Grandchildren 6 GG1
Special Comments Would love to meet guys who were aboard with me during those 12 days. Biggest ship I was on before Cadmus was Staten Island Ferry...was about a mile across to NYC.

Favorite Memory During Precision Anchoring exercise in Caribbean. The Officer of the Deck (under instruction) ordered "Let go the anchor". The CO, Capt E B Pugsley, realizing that the ship had too much headway, ordered "Belay that, belay that". As the 1JV Phone Talker on the bridge, I was relaying these orders over the sound powered phone to YN3 Sam Milhouse, the 1JV man on the foc'sle, and he in turn relayed them to the Precision Anchoring Crew. Needless to say the first order was acted upon before the second order was received. The boatswain's mate hit the pelican hook at the same time as they received the "Belay that" order. The anchor chain was paying out, the CO ordered "back Emergency" and the Ship's Boatswain, CWO4 Farthing, set eh brake on the anchor chain. The brake started smoking, 'deck apes' started running, the brake held, and Sam Milhouse hit the end of his phone line, jerked his head around and he stopped much quicker than the anchor did. I still recall that 60 second snap shot that I had from the bridge looking down on the foc'sle as though it was yesterday.
Worst Memory Having the weekend duty the day I returned from 7 weeks of TAD. Must not have been too bad though because that was the weekend that I decided to reenlist.
Children 4 Grandchildren 9
Special Comments During the first 3 1/2 years I saw nothing favorable about the Navy. I could not wait to get out. One weekend while I had the weekend duty, I was seriously contemplating my future. I decided to write down the pros and cons of a Navy career. When I got finished with my two lists, I found the pros far outweighed the cons, so I decided to reenlist. Having made that decision in December 1960 as a YN3, I never looked back. 31 years and 4 months later I retired with the grade of Commander.

Special Comments I remember the Cadmus's first Atlantic crossing in Sept 1957. During heavy seas the ship began to roll from side to side. I was on watch in DC central and recorded a 38 degree roll doing a great deal of damage on the mess deck, throwing tables and men eating breakfast across the deck. I missed breakfast that morning. Had a great liberty in Glasgow. Then on to Cherbourg Fr. Not so good, got drunk, passed out on Quarter deck and woke up on steel bench in aft ship fitters shop.
In '58 we sailed to the Med, passing the Rock of Gibraltar, stopping at Palma on the Island of Mallorca, then on to Barcelona Spain. Then on to Cannes, France. I was boat engineer on one of the 50 foot motor boats. The sea got up and the Cadmus had to put sea, they sent us into the harbor. The next morning the ship radioed and had us come down the coast to a harbor to meet the Cadmus. The seas were still rough and we all got a good soaking. They sent us down to sick bay and got a shot of whiskey. After that, we went on to Naples and then home. I remember David Delie and Lewis Reynolds went to boot camp with them. Worked in R1 Div, with Steve Hila, am still in contact with Steve. William Looper in the Bake Shop made some great cakes. Looper do you remember I rode with you on trips home and the time we almost lost a wheel when lug nuts came off. We were riding on a lug nut and a prayer. Hope to hear from some of my shipmates.

Special Comments Prior to retirement and transfer to the fleet Reserve, the CADMUS was my last duty station.
A clean ship with excellent food! These were two pluses for the CADMUS, but were by no means her only claim to fame. We had a great Chief's Quarters, comprising just about every rating that made the hold of a Repair Ship: E-9's, E-8's and E-7's. All worked together to ensure harmony and respect for all. I was fortunate to have had an excellent office crew, consisting of YN's, PN's, Postal clerks, Printers and an upcoming rate-Career Counselor. I had good rapport with the Flag that was in the CADMUS (CONSERVRON TWO).
One memory stands out in my mind, it was the ship's 3 month stay in Valletta, Malta-a spot that still calls me again and again to revisit. (I've often told my wife, that I would like to take her to see this lovely place). As a repair ship for the southern Mediterranean for the Sixth Fleet, as well as a good-will gesture on the part of the United States, the CADMUS was deployed to Malta on January 3, 1966. The British, including all military forces, were going to leave. An election was to occur sometime during our 3 month stay. The British military contingent was more than helpful to us in every way. For example, an American Soccer team was established on board the CADMUS. We won the over-all championship. The rapport established between the people of Malta and our Navy was phenomenal. In early April of '66, when the CADMUS departed Valletta, a throng of fireboats and a cheering crowd led us to the breakwater. (An election had ushered in a labor government; hence, the departure of the British.)
Fond memories of that deployment still linger. Shipmates, how many of you remember the "GUT", or more properly, "STRAIGHT STREET"?
We returned to Newport, RI circa April 1966 to the strains of the Navy Band, and the sight of dependents and guests waiting for us on the pier.
Very respectfully submitted

Special Comments If anyone knows anything about the recommissioning of the Amick or the Atherton I'd live to hear about it. From EM school at Great Lakes, I was to report to the Atherton, but went to the Amick by mistake. A Yeoman discovered the error about 6 months later and I was moved to the Atherton. The Captain of the Atherton was a Lt who was promoted to Lt CDR at the time of the transfer of the ships to the Japanese Navy. Accordingly, he promoted all (designated striker) Fireman Apprentices to Fireman. What a lucky break for me.
