Worst Memory When I was almost hit by one of our out control drones out from Chincoteague, VA, as it was about to crash into the section of the ship's bridge I was on; but thankfully it crashed without damaging the ship nor hurting anybody as it crashed in the water on the port side of the USS MISSISSIPPI

Favorite Memory I grew up in a very back-country area in the Blue Ridge Mountains, knowing nothing about either ships or the sea. After having been on MISSISSIPI about 2 to 3 weeks, we were at sea and a gale had blown up. About 1600 hours, an announcement was made to "Stand by for heavy rolls". I pondered over that announcement for some time, and could only conclude that the cooks had ruined the bread for dinner. I have chuckled over this many times since then, and on each occasion was glad I never mentioned this to my shipmates.
